

Nouveau Fauvism

Paintings on canvas,

More and wilder colors,

The black base lines move more to the background.

Nouveau fauvism

If you can not easily memorize it, if it is not a clear cut picture, the whole painting is a waste of time.

The art of painting is to leave away all futile details. While painting, the question for each stroke is : does it add to the total emotion?

Is this the place or should it be a bit further away? Is this the angle? The color?

The rhythm?

The painting is a balance between each group of lines, between directions and speed.

A painting is a game that unfolds, executing step after step.

Each line asks for another line.

The art is to restrict oneself.
